

Friends:

As a business owner and former military commander, my expectations are high across regardless of venue. Though my franchise provided me with a webpage and the ability to turnkey other smaller web pages, I wanted something more. I wanted it quickly and I wanted someone to infuse it with the necessary information and key components that make a site attractive to my customers.

LAL Computers was referred to me by more than one trusted business owner and upon meeting Lee Ann I understood the loyalty and professional sincerity of those referrals. Lee Ann knew how to build the structure of my site through well prepared questions, suggestions and final solutions.

My site was up and running in days and tweaked to perfection. Other web sites will follow and she will be my first and only choice in web site development no matter how many millions I make.
